

NEWS GATHERED FROM SOUTHSIDE

Craig Voted for Blaine.
Apparently believing that the Craig line is more impregnable than that of the others, friends of the others are striking him with a new blow. For instance, they have voted in the past to find that Craig voted for Blaine against Grover Cleveland for President of the United States. Ordinarily that might have killed him, yet it is passed over as one of the indiscretions of youth.

Doubtful Now if Toney Will Be Candidate for Mayor.
Manchester Bureau, Times-Dispatch, No. 1102, 11th Street.

With the primary almost at hand, with two avowed candidates and with hotly fought contests for the Board of Aldermen, in the First, Second and Fourth Wards, the political situation in this city is growing interesting. Attention is being attracted to the fact that the attention is steadily turning to the coming election. Mr. D. L. Toney has not stated positively whether or not he will become a candidate for mayor, and when seen last night appeared very doubtful about the matter. He will announce his decision to-day. Should Mr. Toney decide not to run, as now seems very probable, the race between Mayor Maurice, the incumbent, and Mr. I. R. Brown, will be very close.

Montague to Speak.
Former Governor A. J. Montague will deliver a lecture to-morrow night under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the Westminster Memorial Methodist Church of Swansboro. The address will describe Mr. Montague's secret trip to South America.

Arrested for Fighting.
Eddie Walker and Howard Reams were arrested for fighting on Hull Street on Saturday night. The fight which attracted a large crowd, was broken up by a police officer. Walker came out slightly the worse for a black eye and bloody nose. The men will appear for trial this morning.

Leon Batchelor, a glass-blower, is charged with jumping his board bill at the Lafayette Hotel, leaving no baggage. A warrant was issued for his arrest, but so far he has not been located. Batchelor, it is alleged, is one of many of his calling who have recently skipped leaving a board bill behind.

To Resume Work.
The puddle mill of the Old Dominion Iron and Nail Works will resume operation this morning after having been closed down for four months. The puddlers, however, go back to work at a reduction of fifty cents on the ton, which means a loss of nearly a dollar a day to each man. It is thought that other departments will be open soon.

Retaining Wall.
Work of putting down a concrete wall and building retaining wall on Short Sixth Street to the Free Bridge will be commenced in a short time. During the process of construction the Passenger and Power Company will have to put in a cross-over and use one track along the street, as it will be impossible to operate both tracks while the work is being done.

Elks to Meet.
A meeting of the Manchester Lodge of Elks will be held to-night at its hall for the purpose of electing officers. The position expected over several of the positions and a full attendance is desired. A delegate to the Grand Lodge of Elks to be held in Dallas, Tex., will also be chosen at this meeting.

Caught a Convict.
Passengers on a car coming in from Petersburg on Saturday reported that a sixteen-year-old boy had captured the negro prisoner who escaped from the State convict road force, near Petersburg. As the car was on its way over the young negro was seen marching the stalwart prisoner up the road at the point of a double-barreled shotgun.

Personals and Briefs.
Mr. A. L. Powell is quite sick at his residence, No. 113 Perry Street.

Mrs. Talbot, mother of Mr. William Talbot, of this city, who has been extremely ill at her home in Swansboro, is greatly improved.

Barry Parker, who was injured by an Atlantic Coast Line train recently, is very much better.

Janie Robinson, who is at the Virginia Hospital in Richmond, is somewhat improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Gillette returned from Albany last night and this afternoon Warden Benham permitted them to see the condemned man and his sister-in-law. Mrs. Gillette carried a white rose to the condemned man's cell, and her sister-in-law carried a red flower. Gillette was not allowed to see the flowers, but they were placed where he could see them. The parting between Gillette and his mother was deeply affecting. Mrs. Gillette was given out after the execution.

Would Not Elope, Killed Her.
WELLSVILLE, OHIO, March 29.—Because Mrs. Spire, wife of Constable William Spire, refused to elope with him, George Snowden, of Steubenville, Ohio, to-day shot the woman and then turned the gun upon himself. Snowden died almost instantly. The woman is still living, but her wounds may prove fatal. Both are negroes.

CHICAGO, ILL., March 29.—W. D. Haywood, for many years secretary of the Western Federation of Miners, to-day denounced President Roosevelt. Governor Gooding, of Idaho, and other public officers at a mass meeting of Socialists. Resolutions were adopted, denouncing the use of troops in the strike of miners in Alaska.

Haywood referred to the attempted throwing of a bomb in New York yesterday as the work of a deluded mortal, who sought to take by force what he was in justice entitled to.

The police were present, but no attempt was made to prevent the speech.

HATCHING BOOMS IN POLITICAL INCUBATOR

Session of Legislature Reveals Soaring Aspirations of Number of Members—Some of Those Who Have Bees in Their Bonnets.

BY CLINTON A. BOYCE.

It would be wholly out of keeping with a long line of well established precedents, should a Virginia Legislature reach its final stages without revealing the development of higher political aspirations on the part of a number of its members. There is apparently something about the Capitol atmosphere or the association of the members with one another which has a stimulating effect upon that human characteristic called ambition, and if a man has in his heart the faintest desire to ascend in the scale of public life, membership in either branch of the Legislature generally suffices to bring it out. Indeed, Virginia Legislatures in this regard might properly be termed political incubators, where individual booms are hatched, either to disappear like bubbles in the air, or to be crowned with victory in the campaigns by the mighty voice of the people.

At this point, it is interesting to note the great number of Virginians now occupying high official positions, both here and in Washington, whose yearning to wear distinguished honors, was stimulated by service in the General Assembly of their State.

The list is led by United States Senator John W. Daniel, whose first legislative experience was in the Virginia Senate. The following members of the present House of Representatives have served in one branch or the other of the State Legislature:

Harry L. Maynard, Second District (Senate); E. W. Saunders, Fifth District (House), was for several years Speaker; Carter Glass, Sixth District (Senate); James H. Blair, Tenth District (both branches); H. D. Flood, Tenth District (both branches).

This is exactly half the entire delegation in the United States Congress from Virginia, and the proportion of State officials who started public life in the Legislature is nearly as large. Here is the list:

Lieutenant-Governor J. Taylor Ellyson (Senate); Attorney-General William A. Anderson (House), Secretary of the Commonwealth; D. Q. Eggleston (Senate); Corporation Commissioner Joseph E. Willard (House); Corporation Commissioner William F. Rhea (Senate); Adjutant General C. J. Anderson (Senate); Commissioner of Agriculture George W. Keiser (House); Supreme Court Judge R. H. Cardwell (House); Speaker for several terms.

This list includes only those whose legislative booms materialized, and who are now engaged in these higher fields of usefulness. It has no reference to the uncounted scores who dropped out of sight when they began to leap for higher things.

The incubator was kept in pretty active operation at the recent session, and the booms hatched out for various members are already being considered by the voters, to whose arbitrament they will finally be submitted.

On the Senate side, Judge Mann's boom for Governor received some attention, though it was started at a former session, and there is apparently nothing very new or striking about it. Governor Swanson gave it a bad puncture three years ago, but the Senator has not given up the idea of mending it to some extent and, at other critical periods of the session, but it is going again, and will have its final test in the primaries next year.

Two other booms were launched in the interest of Senators at the recent session, and they were both on the Republican side.

One, in favor of Hon. John C. Noel, of Lee, for Governor next year, grew mainly out of the fact that Noel, in his capacity of Governor, received some attention, though it was started at a former session, and there is apparently nothing very new or striking about it. Governor Swanson gave it a bad puncture three years ago, but the Senator has not given up the idea of mending it to some extent and, at other critical periods of the session, but it is going again, and will have its final test in the primaries next year.

Another boom, in favor of Senator John M. Parsons, of Grayson, for Congress in the Fifth District, Senator Parsons is still in the city and declares that he is preparing for battle. He said last night that former Governor A. J. Montague and some other strong lawyers would take the new redistricting bill to the Supreme Court in an effort to have it annulled. The bill takes Floyd county out of the First and puts it into the Sixth District, and the Republicans are fighting it on the ground that its passage was purely a partisan political move. Senator Parsons will run as the Republican candidate against Hon. E. W. Saunders, the Democratic incumbent.

In the closing hours of the session, some of Speaker Byrd's friends started a boom for him for permanent chairman of the coming Roanoke convention, and owing to his high standing with the people and the State and his consummate ability as a presiding officer, he will most likely prove an easy winner. Many persons have thought the Speaker might enter the race for Attorney-General next year, but his closest friends have not even advised him of any such intention. He said it is fairly certain that he will not run.

There are two House members who are considering the question of running for Lieutenant-Governor in the primary next year. They are Colonel A. M. Bowman, of Salem, and Colonel James R. Caton, of Alexandria. The former is chairman of the Finance Committee and a legislator of ripe experience; the latter has long been the Democratic flag-bearer in the lower branch of the General Assembly. Though neither has definitely announced a determination to run, both are freely talked of in connection with the office. They are men of wide acquaintance and popularity, and have long been Democratic leaders in their respective sections.

Robert W. Withers, of Suffolk, perhaps the most fluent and eloquent speaker in the House, has congressional aspirations, though he did not actually announce his candidacy before leaving the city. The field is already pretty well stocked with candidates, and indications are that the larger the number the brighter the prospects for the renomination of Congressman Harry L. Maynard. His avowed opponents up to this time are Colonel George C. Cabell, ex-Congressman William A. Young, of Norfolk, and Mr. J. Peter Holland, of Southampton. Possible additions to this list are George W. Jones, of York, and W. W. Safford, of Norfolk, and Robert W. Withers, of Suffolk. Subject to contingencies which may or may not arise, the friends of Dr. John J. Owen, of Prince Edward, have launched a boom for him as Judge Mann's successor in the Senate.

ate, should the latter win the governorship next year.

The district, which is the Twenty-eighth, is composed of the counties of Nottoway, Amelia, Prince Edward, Lunenburg and Cumberland.

There will be another hatching of political booms at the Roanoke convention, which meets on June 11th, and it is also true that some of those already hatched will be promoted or expanded in that great gathering of Virginia Democrats.

Under the provisions of the new tariff act, holders of live oyster licenses, April 1st, holders of mileage books will be required to present them to station agents, who will tear out the necessary amount and give the passenger a ticket which will carry him to his destination. Local railroad officials said yesterday that there had been no complaint heretofore from commercial travelers who cover this State and other States, the echo of the North Carolina storm not having been heard in Richmond.

By way of explanation it was stated yesterday that the new regulation is not different from that which has prevailed for years in the West, and that unless it is adopted in Southeastern States the roads may be forced to curtail their passenger service. In other words, it must be left for the traveling public to determine whether it prefers the old custom of presenting books to train conductors or the general interchangeable system.

What Commission Says.

"This is a new practice," says an official statement issued by the Georgia Commission, "for the first time introduced into this territory, although it has prevailed heretofore in many parts of the country and has proven very satisfactory both to the traveling public and the railroads, the public having readily accommodated itself to the same, and being glad thereby to get the benefit of such reduced rates. The purchasers of such mileage books should take note and govern themselves accordingly."

After all it means that the railway companies selling such mileage transportation are selling the purchaser an order for a certain amount of transportation which the passenger gets at reduced rates at rates lower than prescribed by law.

There are many sound reasons which have caused the railway companies to adopt this plan. Recognizing the difficulty of so framing the rules for a subject like this as to be perfectly fair and equitable, it is to be presumed and so stated that when by experience the justice or necessity for amendment in any particular shall from time to time appear reasonable, amendments or changes will be made to conform to the particular case and contribute to the convenience and comfort of the traveling public, with due regard to the protection of the interest of the roads granting the reduced transportation."

Was Gallant Confederate Officer. Married Three Times; His Last Wife Survives Him.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

LYNCHBURG, VA., March 29.—Colonel Maurice S. Langhorne died at midnight last night after being ill for some weeks. He had just passed his eighty-fifth birthday. Prior to the Civil War he engaged in the mercantile business. He volunteered at the beginning of the war, and left Lynchburg with the Lynchburg Rifle Grays, with a captain's commission. Shortly after this he was made colonel of his regiment, but his wound prevented further active service.

In 1842 he married Miss Maria Rodes, daughter of General David Rodes, who lived but a short time after marriage. His second wife was Miss Alice Neill of Philadelphia, who died in 1873.
